Drawings

The drawings are objected to under 37 CFR 1.83(a). The drawings must show every feature of the invention specified in the claims. Therefore, the bracket stops must be shown or the feature(s) canceled from the claim(s). No new matter should be entered.

Corrected drawing sheets in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(d) are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. Any amended replacement drawing sheet should include all of the figures appearing on the immediate prior version of the sheet, even if only one figure is being amended. The figure or figure number of an amended drawing should not be labeled as "amended." If a drawing figure is to be canceled, the appropriate figure must be removed from the replacement sheet, and where necessary, the remaining figures must be renumbered and appropriate changes made to the brief description of the several views of the drawings for consistency. Additional replacement sheets may be necessary to show the renumbering of the remaining figures. Each drawing sheet submitted after the filing date of an application must be labeled in the top margin as either "Replacement Sheet" or "New Sheet" pursuant to 37 CFR 1.121(d). If the changes are not accepted by the examiner, the applicant will be notified and informed of any required corrective action in the next Office action. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Specification

The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities: in the first sentence of the specification, the co-pending information should be updated to state that the case is now abandoned. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1-3, 7 and 11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Wood et al. Wood teaches a table (Fig. 23) comprising: a plastic table top (32,33) with a lip (64,39), a pair of spaced apart L-shaped brackets (67/90,bases 94/97) integrally formed with the bottom of the table top and defining a chamber there between, a drawer (31) sized and slidably disposed in the chamber(upper portion thereof); and a pair of legs (56) connected to the table top.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-3, 7, 8 and 11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Teichner. Teichner teaches a table (Fig. 4) comprising: a plastic table top (20,22) with lip having a notch, a pair of spaced apart L-shaped brackets (76; vertical and lower horizontal base members together) attached to the bottom of the table top and defining a chamber there between, a drawer (72) sized and slidably disposed in the chamber (upper portion thereof) and through the notch when desired; and a pair of legs (56) connected to the table top. For claim 1, Teichner fails to teach that the brackets are integrally formed with the table top. It is well known in the art to modify a structure so that formerly separate parts thereof are formed integrally together. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to modify the table of Teichner by integrally forming the brackets with the table top (the top horizontal member being integrally formed with the bottom of the table top leaving L-shaped depending members), to simplify assembly of the table.

Claim 10 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Wood et al in view of Norwood et al. As stated above, Wood teaches the limitations of claim 1, including brackets supporting a drawer. For claim 10,

Art Unit: 3637

Wood fails to teach that the brackets include stops therein. Norwood teaches the use of mating stops (60,110) between a sliding member and bracket to limit movement of the member within the bracket. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to modify the bracket and drawer of Wood by adding mating stops (such as is taught by Norwood) there between, for the advantage stated above.

Claim 10 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Teichner in view of Norwood. As stated above, Teichner teaches the limitations of claim 1, including brackets supporting a drawer. For claim 10, Teichner fails to teach that the brackets include stops therein. Norwood teaches the use of mating stops (60,110) between a sliding member and bracket to limit movement of the member within the bracket. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to modify the bracket and drawer of Teichner by adding mating stops, such as is taught by Norwood, there between, for the advantage stated above.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 4-6 and 9 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Claims 12-20 are allowed. (The allowable subject matter being the table having a table top with integrally formed drawer receiving portions extending there from, both having hollow interior portions.)
